5

10

15

38

SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR DETERMINING SUBSCRIBER INFORMATION

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

system for determining subscriber information server coupled to a number includes access an subscribers using a communication network, a memory coupled to the access server, and a processor coupled to the memory. The access server receives a communication from a particular subscriber using a particular one of a number of virtual circuits associated with the communication network. stores subscriber information memory subscribers, wherein the subscriber information is indexed by path information that identifies a virtual circuit assigned to the particular subscriber. The processor determines subscriber information for communication to the particular subscriber based upon the path information and particular virtual circuit usėd to receive the communication from the particular subscriber.